history of the DAYTON ARCADE

The Dayton Arcade, an architectural gem in downtown Dayton, was constructed between 1902 and 1904 under the design of architect Frank Mills Andrews. The Arcade consists of nine interconnecting buildings, crowned by a magnificent 90-foot glass-domed rotunda, originally served as a bustling hub for food markets, retail shops, and residential apartments. The beautiful Arcade has been meticulously restored, reclaiming its status as a vibrant center for community, culture, and celebration.

Today, the Arcade continues its legacy as a space for innovation and community connection — making it an ideal location for forward-thinking events, fundraising galas, and mission-driven gatherings.
